Audiovisual Archive for Institutions

REPORT #2

2021

www.onarchitecture.com

1.

Broadcasting architecture.

OnArchitecture is an audiovisual archive of architecture online, founded in 2012 by Chilean architects and academics Felipe De Ferrari and Diego Grass, along with psychologist Claudio Mesa.

It offers a deep and detailed panorama of the world's main authors, works, experiences, and issues related to the field of architecture, urban design and the built environment. A collection of building portraits and interviews with architects, artists, curators, researchers, landscape architects, and urban designers from around the world since 2008.

OnArchitecture is nowadays the largest audiovisual architecture archive available, with 550 videos (and updates every year).

This database is available as a subscription service for architecture schools, libraries, and cultural institutions at www.onarchitecture.com. Since 2018, it is also distributed by EBSCO.

Learning tool.

OnArchitecture displays the oral and built history of architecture of the late XX century and early XXI century, with a strong emphasis on contemporary architecture in (South and North) America, Europe, and Asia. A direct contribution to academics, updating their knowledge, and boosting their educative practice -both online and in classes- dynamizing their methodological and pedagogical resources.

Librarians have found OnArchitecture to be a collection, which can be accessed from any location and device -simultaneously and unlimitedly, something fundamental since pandemics-, in which users can be administrated into various types of groups with real-time usage statistics.

Students have found OnArchitecture to be a catalyst for their initiative, self-learning, critical thinking, and global perspective of the discipline; thus contributing to form better architects -who will eventually make better architecture-.

Critical content.

Our videos have been watched +500.000 times already. Our independent and critical approach on architecture and built environment has attracted commissions from editorial houses such as Gustavo Gili and cultural institutions such as Barcelona Design Museum, Vitra Design Museum or the Heinz Architectural Center. Our videos have been featured in Solo Galerie (París, 2016), Swiss Architecture Museum (2017), Toto Gallery (Tokyo, 2018), 16th International Architecture Exhibition (Venice, 2018), 12th International Architecture Biennale of São Paulo (2019) among other institutions and venues.

The following pages contain the new content available-managing the constraints by the pandemics-including new 20 videos online. A second update is scheduled for June 2021.
